Lets Make This Christmas Sane

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Within a few days those words will be repeated, on every hand within this city and all over the world.

And about the same time those wishes are being broadcast will come wire reports from all over the United States telling of Christmas accidents. They will tell largely of children burned by coming too close to candles on Christmas trees. The old fashioned tall candles used on the highly inflammable Christmas trees decorated with light material almost more subject to burning than powder or gasoline and much more dangerous.

Lets make it a really happy Christmas for Richmond. Accidents are bound to happen but lets do everything we can to make them less liable in Richmond.

Last year Richmond had a clean slate. Fire Chief W. P. Cooper is sending out the following warning to residents of Richmond so that the holidays will be full of happiness and not regrets: "As Christmas fast approaches we are again confronted with the problem of Christmas Fires. Are the good people of Richmond going to duplicate the wonderful record of last year by not having a single Christmas fire or are we going to finish our holidays in sorrow and regret?"

LET'S REPEAT OUR RECORD OF LAST YEAR

This can easily be accomplished with just a little thoughtfulness and care.

Just stop and think of the terrible Yuletide holocaust in the little school house at Babbs' Switch, Oklahoma. Thirty-three precious lives lost just because some one used candles to decorate a Christmas tree, and because the little school house did not have proper exits.

We again appeal to you all. Be careful. Despatch with the use of Candles and all inflammable material for decorations.

You have all been warned. Have you all been convinced? Lets have a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

NEW WATER MAINS
The East Bay Water company has contracted with city to install new water mains throughout the city at the cost of more than $300,000. High pressure water mains are now being installed in Twelfth street between Barret and Nevins avenues.

ROME, Dec. 19.—Bloodshed attended the occupation by Italian troops of the Consulate of Ochia and Hujurtine in Italian Semaliland according to reports received today. Two Italian officers were ambushed and killed.

The Sultan Osman attacked an Italian vessel killing three officers. In reprisal an Italian cruiser bombarded and destroyed Bargeel the seat of the Osman government. The latter has fled.

Merchants Give Children Big Christmas Party

That the Richmond Merchants know how to give their people a good time was ably shown at the monster Kiddies' Party staged at the California theatre yesterday morning. Big-hearted Dan Reardon threw open the doors of the California theatre and invited every child and his neighbor to see a big free show and he put on a program equal to any in the neighboring big cities.

The Richmond Merchants Association provided candy canes for every child and by the looks of the mob there we're convinced that Doc Blake's reports on Richmond's steady gain are absolutely correct.

We also think that they are wonderfully healthy kids too, for they sang so loud and long under Leader Canello that the lights in the theatre danced and you could hear the music along the avenue.

The crowd was a fine, orderly one—thanks to Scout Master George's splendid training of Troops 2 and 3 for they had things in such good shape that the police and fire department representatives complimented them on their fine work.

The following boys served as ushers and helped old Santa Claus distribute the candy canes, made by the Don O'Sweets: Leslie Stanley, Edwin Brooks, George Harvey, Bernard Hoeffler, St. Stanley Madero, Ray Melin, Arthur Rogers, Guy Ripley, Todd Scott, Chester Stanley, Harry Thorsen and H. Vaughn.

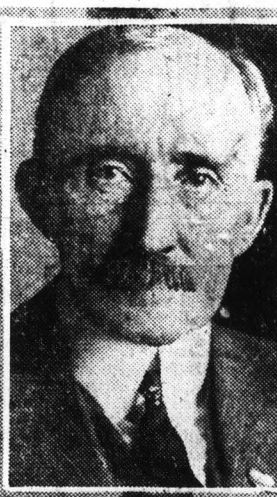

Santa Claus made a great hit with children and Harry Noonan is to be thanked for that part of the program.

And those kiddies of Matilda Myers surely did her proud and it was too bad there wasn't room enough for the mothers to see them.

It was some party—but that isn't all—there's to be another visit of Santa Claus next Tuesday afternoon—don't forget the day and date—December 12.

The party on Tuesday is for mother and father and sister and brother and grandma and grandpa, and all the relatives and friends for Santa is coming to Richmond with his reindeer and he will drive up Macdonald avenue so that everybody will have a chance to meet him and his reindeer. The Richmond Merchants Association invites all to be down town on Tuesday afternoon for a big treat is in store for you.

Thompson, Presidents Critic, Elected Head of Farm Bureau Federation

S. H. Thompson, who severely criticized the speech President Coolidge delivered recently in Chicago, was elected head of the American Farm Bureau Federation at the close of the organization's three-day annual meeting in Chicago. He succeeded S. E. Bradfute of Xenia, who had held the post for three years.

XMAS SEASON IS UNDER WAY IN RICHMOND

The Christmas season has been ushered in royally by the many festivities and programs which have been given by the different clubs, churches and lodges of Richmond. Bazaars, whist parties, and food sales have marked the efforts of those desiring to do something to raise funds for welfare work.

Plans of the various clubs to provide Christmas cheer for those confined in hospitals and county homes are under way. The War Mothers, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans, and other organizations of like nature, are making plans to provide Christmas cheer for the War Veterans in Livermore hospital.

Young People's societies have found their work in contributing something to the happiness of the inmates in the County Home and County Hospital. Any one who has ever done any work along that line of endeavor fully understands the cheer and comfort that these people derive in knowing that someone thinks of their happiness and welfare. If only at the Christmas season when everyone is fairly bubbling over with gladness and joy.

Another group which everyone delights in doing something for, is the kiddies. They certainly have been in their glory, with parties given in their honor by the Sunday schools, lodges and other organizations. The party given yesterday morning by the Merchant's Association is a wonderful example of what just a little planning and thought will do to make them happy. With so many working so hard, it seems that this Christmas must be a "Merry Christmas to all."

UNITY CENTER
A program of special music will be rendered today at the services of the Richmond Unity Center. Burk S. Calfee will render several vocal solos, accompanied by Emil Esola. The speaker of the day will be Mrs. James T. Nabett. Church will be held at 4 o'clock.

B. F. Flynn of the Standard Furniture company, left yesterday morning for Missoula, Montana, where his mother is seriously ill.

BOY SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Four year old Derrell Hopkins son of Mrs. W. M. Hopkins 551 Twentieth street is in the Berkeley General hospital suffering from a fractured skull and severe bruises received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Moody Jorgensen.

The little lad had been visiting with his grandmother Mrs. Jenny Loveless, 612 Twenty-second street yesterday afternoon and was running across the street when he ran into the path of the machine. He was taken into the home of his grandmother by Jorgensen and later removed to the Berkeley General Hospital where according to attendants he has an even chance for recovery.

According to witnesses of the accident the little boy was busy eating a sandwich which he had just received from his grandmother and at the same time was chasing a dog across the street. He is said to have run directly into the path of the oncoming car and both the boy and dog were struck by the machine. Jorgensen states that he slammed on his brakes when he saw the boy but the distance did not permit his machine to come to a full stop as he was on top of the lad before he noticed him.

Brother Contests Widows Right to F. Blume Estate

MARTINEZ, Dec. 19.—A suit contesting the right of Mrs. Angela Guisti Blume to inherit the $20,000 estate left by the late Frank Blume of San Pablo, was filed in the Superior Court by F. W. Blume, a brother at Concord. According to Blume's complaints, when his brother married Mrs. Angela Guisti on August 9, 1922, Mrs. Guisti had not received a final decree of divorce from her former husband. He charges that she is not the legal wife of his brother and is not entitled to the estate.

Mrs. Blume was granted letters of administration by the Superior Court of Contra Costa county after the death of Blume on October 25, 1915. She was named administratrix under the presumption that she was Blume's legal widow. F. W. Blume filed suit yesterday, asking that the estate go to him and sisters and brothers of the deceased.

Besides F. W. Blume there are two brothers and two sisters of the deceased. They are: William and Edward Blume, of San Pablo; Mrs. Mary Bickie, of 190 Ninth Avenue, San Francisco, and Mrs. Lena Read of Orland.

The suit was filed through Attorney A. B. Tinning of Martinez. Mrs. Blume is represented by Attorneys Pierce & Carlson and Will Robinson.

Christmas Party Is Held Here By Hermann Sons

A Christmas party featured the meeting of the Hermann Sons and Sisters last night at the Pythian castle. The program was for the children. A large Christmas tree was in one corner of the hall and Santa Claus appeared and distributed candies and nuts to the children. The short musical program was followed by dancing.

Those who were in charge of the program were: Joe Hirth, Gus Wittkopf and G. H. Neks.

SAN FRANCISCO—San Francisco Mercantile Association organized

THESE TWO CHOSEN AS HEALTHIEST YOUNGSTERS FROM AMONG 600,000 BOYS AND GIRLS ON FARMS

Miss Alice Burkhardt, 15 years old, of Audubon County, Iowa, and George Cuskaden of St. Paul, Ind., were chosen as the healthiest youngsters in America in a contest held in connection with the International Live Stock Show in Chicago. Alice scored 65.7 per cent and George 97 per cent. Alice, who is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 131 pounds, rides horseback, swims and plays tennis and basketball. George is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He helps his father in running a 200-acre farm. More than 600,000 farm boys and girls from all sections of the country participated in the contest.

Berkeley Borrows Richmond Beauty for Representation At S. P. Train Dedication

Richmond is noted for many things, according to H. A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Berkeley has just helped this city in telling the world about one of them of which the city is most proud, according to Johnston.

Yesterday morning Johnston accompanied by Mrs. Helen Kingsbury, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Miss Dolly Colclough as "Miss Richmond" attended the dedication of the new Overland Limited of the Southern Pacific company at the Oakland mole.

When invited to the dedication, Johnston was told to bring the most attractive girl in Richmond to act as Miss Richmond in the motion pictures to be taken of the new train.

Johnston assisted by Miss Kingsbury selected Miss Colclough and made their way to the Southern Pacific mole yesterday morning. "For a moment it looked as though we had run into an embarrassing situation when we arrived there," Johnston stated. "We found a young lady from Richmond already there and in the line of the representatives of the Eastbay cities. For a moment I thought that some mistake had been made and that some other person had brought Mrs. Gloria Rasmussen of 628 Twenty-first street, Richmond, to take the part of Miss Richmond."

"Imagine my surprise however, when Mrs. Rasmussen turned around to find a banner 'Miss Berkeley' draped over her shoulders."

Johnston states that he gives Berkeley credit for one thing and that is when they know they can't produce the thing that they want they get the thing that will put them in line with their neighbor in Contra Costa county.

According to both Johnston and Mrs. Kingsbury, the new train is a palace on wheels. Everything from the paint on the tip of the cowcatcher to the lens in the rear light is brand new and of the latest. All modern conveniences are included in the cars, which cut down the inconvenience of transcontinental travel to a minimum.

The program by the children of its members was as follows: Coronet Solo by Edward Hill. Reading by Betty Archibald. Piano Solo by Edna Gillard. First Aid: Bugle Calls and Signalling by Troop 4, Boy Scouts under direction of Scoutmaster E. C. Cox.

Reading by Donald McNary. Dutch play by pupils of fourth grade, Peres School.

Reading by Catherine Craig. Officials of the lodge served on the committees. After the program Santa Claus appeared and distributed candies and fruits.

F. A. Tittermore of the Decora Manufacturing company plans to occupy the residence of Larkin Younce at Mira Vista which he has purchased.

U. C. Head Makes Bitter Attack On Pro Grid Players

President W. W. Campbell of the University of California yesterday attacked the "Gold Coast type of Professionalism" of Ernie Nevers and Red Grange. Campbell is bitter against the two stars because they have turned their football experience gained at college to professional benefit and declares that their "indirect consequence upon football as a college sport will be extremely serious."

He states that he will do all he can to prevent the University of California from becoming a prep school for professional football. Campbell states that Grange registered for his senior year in the University of Illinois in the latter half of September, just as the football season was officially beginning, and he remained in the university only long enough to play in the final intercollegiate football game of the season, on November 21. The next day he signed a contract for professional football service, and immediately quit his university studies. It is there that he took inexcusable advantage of the University of Illinois, Campbell states.

Ernie Nevers recovered from his injuries received in the game with the University of Washington in time to play against the University of California football team on November 21, at Palo Alto; he then immediately took leave of absence from his university on the basis of illness, and two or three weeks later he became a professional football player.

Boys will now be planning to go to college, not because they will have an interest in scholarship, or anything else that colleges were established to foster, but with the idea of remaining in college only until they become football stars of sufficient magnitude to command salaries in accordance with their dreams of sudden wealth. If such becomes the case, presidents of universities will be driven to prohibit intercollegiate football contests, Campbell stated.

Johnston states that he gives Berkeley credit for one thing and that is when they know they can't produce the thing that they want they get the thing that will put them in line with their neighbor in Contra Costa county.

VALLEJO MAN IS MURDERED

(By Universal Service)
VALLEJO, Dec. 19.—John McCarty, 40, an employee of the Vallejo Street department was shot and killed in his home to night. The police have in custody Martin Caldwell, 59, who McCarthy declared just before he died had threatened to "get him."

Woolen Mills Rumored for City of Pinole

An option to purchase the Krieger tract of 40 acres, adjoining the town of Pinole on the west has been taken out by Myran Brothers an Oakland real estate firm. It is understood that the option has been taken out with the view of locating a large factory on the property. It is said that negotiations with a woolen mill company are in progress. If the company acquires the property erection of the plant homes for several hundred people are in prospect.

The Krieger tract is one of the best located along the bay shore. It has a frontage on the bay and both the Southern Pacific railroad and the Santa Fe run through it. The water supply, which is one of the big considerations of the deal can be secured through the Hercules Water company.

Foreign Bootleggers Would Be Deported on Conviction Under New Law

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Mandatory jail sentences for American bootleggers and deportation for foreign bootleggers are the outstanding planks in the legislative program, which the Board of Temperance prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church will urge upon congress, it was announced today.

Search Here for Second Car With Big Rum Cargo

Lost strayed or stolen: Two carloads of "crockery." One carload of crockery has arrived at its destination and the prohibition officers are holding George Hackley alleged leader of a bootleg gang as the owner of the "crockery." Said crockery according to prohibition officials contained a portion of San Francisco's Christmas stock of high powered Christmas "cheer." Prohibition agents are "sniffing" all cars coming through Richmond in efforts to trace the alleged "crockery." The car is said to contain 1500 cases of assorted liquor.

A San Francisco transfer company, which is said to have been busy recently transporting contraband goods to local warehouses from freight cars, may be drawn into the investigations which are being made. Illicit liquor has been coming into the Bay cities for some time, it is stated.

Many people who were counting on "Christmas cheer" to stock them up over the holidays will receive a deep blow if the cars are traced. If prohibition agents and Santa Fe Railroad detectives have their way, such will be the case.

War Mothers Have Big Whist Party

The War Mothers held their Christmas whist party last night at the Memorial hall. A $3 turkey order to each table were the prizes given. Mrs. G. W. Stewart was chairman of the committee which consisted of Mrs. C. F. Donnelly and Mrs. Etta Courney. A large crowd attended.

INTERNATIONAL DECENCY

Something new has got into the heart of Germany. She passed up a rare chance lately to stick a knife into her old foe.

The French crisis would have been welcomed by Germany statesmanship of the old militarist type as an opportunity to kick over the traces, get even with France, repudiate pledges and hold up the signing of the Locarno treaty. Berlin might have thrown Paris into further confusion, bedeviled French politics, backed the Socialists, undermined the franc, kicked and threatened and delayed generally in hope of squirming out of national obligations or stirring up a new French revolution.

Instead, Germany went quietly ahead and approved of the Locarno treaty, evidently looking upon the French crisis in sympathy rather in glee.

It seems hardly possible that France and Germany, bitterest of Old World enemies, should have suddenly developed real friendship for each other. But it does look as if, weary of all their futile slaughter and bickering, and conscious of their inevitable need of each other if they are to survive, they have arrived at a state of mind that might be called friendly tolerance and willingness to work together for their mutual interests.

In that lies the hopes of both, and of Europe with them. In that, too lies the hope of America taking a larger and more helpful part in the restoration of Europe.

The Republican leaders say that the overwhelming vote given President Coolidge in the last election is a mandate to the administration and the Republican Party to rule the country until the next election at least. Because of this, they maintain that it is no more than right that the Republicans have control of the committees. Otherwise they will be handicapped in putting through important legislation to which the administration and the party stands committed.

An American admirer of Great Britain has just forwarded $5,500 to the British treasury as his share in helping John Bull pay off the American debt. Here is a fine suggestion for some of our internationalists who want to help promote brotherly feeling among the nations.

A regiment of Chinese troops turned on their Russian allies and slew 3,000 of them. It is said that the trouble started over a ma jong game when one of the Chinese players discovered a Russian player with two west winds up his sleeves.

Effect of Important Inventions

We owe the discovery and colonization of America mainly to the inspiration and persistence of Columbus. But other developments of Europe also were important factors. These were:

1. Invention of the mariner's compass.
2. Invention of gunpowder.
3. Invention of the printing press.
4. The desire of a new all-water route to India.

The compass gave greater certainty to navigation. Gunpowder provided an effective means of subduing unfriendly natives.

The printing press was spreading knowledge and information and had aroused an enormous curiosity on the part of the people as to countries and lands other than those in which they lived.

A new route to India seemed to be necessary.

Europe enjoyed an extensive and highly profitable trade, not only with India, but with China and Japan. Precious stones, spices, silks and many other articles of commerce were brought by ships and caravans from Asia to Southern Europe.

Venice and Genoa, particularly, had been enriched by this trade. Then in 1453 Turks took Constantinople and immediately began raids on the commerce of Europe with Asia.

Traffic between Europe and Asia was made so perilous and uncertain that the profits began to slip away.

That is why Europe began to turn its eyes in some other direction. It had no thought of giving up the Asiatic trade. But it wanted to carry it on by some other and safer route.

Of course, notwithstanding the fact that trade was carried on between Europe and Asia, the people of the two regions had only meager knowledge of each other.

European monarchs were constantly hearing stories of the fabulous wealth of China and the Indies. Particularly were there stories of a ruler called Prester John, who was believed to have a kingdom of most stupendous wealth somewhere in Asia.

Marco Polo, one of the most fascinating characters in history, had returned to Europe after spending much time in China and India, and his stories of the wealth of East further whetted the desire of more knowledge and freer intercourse with those fabulous lands.

Boudoir Slippers of Furry Angora Combine Gay Colors With Cosy Warmth

"NEGLIGEE," literally translated, is French for "neglected." But to-day we are learning to take increasing pride in the graceful slippers worn in precious moments devoted to absolute rest in the bosom of our families. No luxury can be more cosy than the old-fashioned knitted slipper. A new English Angora yarn enables us to bring the ancient comfort and warmth of this prosaic old standby up to the standard of delicacy of modern netting. Made in any smart shade, including the pastel and full rich colors, the knit slipper becomes a novelty of furry warmth and cosy charm. The new yarn is as warm as the Angora rabbit fur from which it is spun. As light as a feather, its fluffy finish is a comfort to behold. On bleak mornings when the mercury withers down towards zero. As a gift, these slippers offer a personal touch that will be a continuous delight in hours of leisure and a chance for the woman who knits to make something positively new.

THREE CENTURIES IN PICTURES

Indian, Dutch, English and American New York
ARISTOCRATIC FIRST FAMILIES IN 1624

A reproduction of one of 150 murals in the Ter-Centenary Exhibit of New York, which will continue until 1926, at Wanamaker's.

THIS indeed was New York in 1624. Its aristocratic first families were red-skinned, rather than blue-blooded. And what is flamboyant Broadway was a lonely Indian trail journeying from end to end of the island, traversing forest and swamp and rocky wastelands on its way. The Indians in the picture have never heard of New York. They called it Mannahatta, meaning broadly a "hilly scene." To their amazement, and those of their kind paddling toward the white winged ship, they are witnessing the arrival of the "Nieuw Nederland" bearing the first Walloons who adventurously came across the seas to found the settlement of New Amsterdam in the wilderness.

"It's too bad," Connemara murmured consolingly, trying not to giggle. "Still, I'm not so sure it's such a bad thing for us they did make a get-away. We've all been mixed up in some pretty queer proceedings. I'm afraid, and Aunt Celimena would just naturally have died if we'd appeared on the front page of the morning papers. As for the money, you leave that to me. I've a sort of hunch—"

She walked over and held out her hand to the weeping Sweetie, who promptly slapped it away.

"Teeth like a darn fox terrier," she sobbed, and continued to rub her wounded leg.

Connemara again reached out her hand, and this time pulled the other girl to her feet. "I'm so sorry—truly, I am. But I just had to. Now—come in here, won't you, for a minute?"

Brushing her tears from her eyes, Sweetie reluctantly followed Connemara within the moonlit sitting room. "What a fine can of oil turned out to be," she muttered. "To let a soft little social dame put it over on me."

"Don't feel so badly," Connemara smiled. "I didn't say fair. How could you know I'd bite you? She put a hand on the girl's shoulder and patted her gently. Then a hard note came into her voice. "It's no use, you know. Hand it over, please."

"But—but—but I'm engaged," she stammered weakly.

Sweetie stared long into Connemara's face. The defiance of her expression gave way to defeat, then to hopelessness. "Yes, all I get is the wreath of hand-painted raspberries." Shrugging her shoulders, she reached inside her blouse and, bitterly, "and a lot of good I hope it does you. Now what? The bulls?"

Connemara smiled winningly. "Bulls? You mean the police? Oh, no, Sweetie. What have they got to do with it? I haven't an idea who really owns this money. If it's yours, I'll give it back when you prove it. Meanwhile—we'll just keep still and watch."

"Oh, well," answered Sweetie, "who cares? I ain't mine. And if it interests you any, I'll tell you I'm glad to see the last of it."

"Poor kid," said Connemara, and once more she patted Sweetie's shoulder. "I like you—a lot. I want to have a talk with you later. Don't you get terribly sick of this sort of life?"

"Aw, for the love of Mike—don't bother about me. I ain't worth it." Nevertheless, with a quick movement, she grasped Connemara's hand and pressed it. "You're a damn good egg yourself."

"Well, what's up?" came Lacy's voice from the doorway. "Find the money?"

Connemara did not hesitate. Her eyelashes flickered slightly in signal to Sweetie as she answered cheerfully. "Um-hmm, wasn't it bright of me? I must be losing what little mind I have. It's been right where I—put it, all the time. You just forget what I dreamed about burying it, won't you?"

"Fine," Lacy said imperturbably, but his eyes looked straight into hers with a quick little glow of admiration. "And now, Miss Sweetie, McTish seems to have something he wants to say to you out on the porch."

"Yeh?" Sweetie snickered. "Well, pardon me for livin'." Then to Connemara, "Holler if he gets fresh." She walked sedately out of the room.

"Snap on the lights," Connemara called after her, but Sweetie was already past the switch.

"Never mind the lights," Lacy spoke softly. He advanced to where the slim figure stood, her face lifted slightly in the blue glow of the moonlight. "Connemara—"

Connemara discovered suddenly that she was trembling. There was that in his voice, in the mere saying of her name, that was like little hands caressing her. This must stop. A man she had known for five minutes two years ago, and rather well—she had to admit that—for the twenty-four hours just past. Still, you couldn't call that time enough to— Or could you?

Who was he? What was he? And what right had he to do such things to her with that caress in his voice? She mustered up her old ally, factiousness. "What a pity you don't make the stage your career?"

But he shattered her silly defense efficiently. "Darling," he whispered. "You darling."

His hands were reaching for her. In a moment he would take her in his arms. How to escape? Then, all at once she knew. She didn't want to escape.

"But—but—but I'm engaged," she stammered weakly.

"You bet your life you are!" Lacy exclaimed. Whatever else he may have meant to do or say was cut short by a blood-curdling shriek. With a thud remarkably reminiscent of that made by a sack of potatoes cast into a wagon, Aunt Celimena sat heavily down upon the top stair, and slid unceremoniously down upon them.

CHAPTER XX

George Palmer Putnam

By George Palmer Putnam

Halfway down the stairs, Aunt Celimena caught at the banisters, staying her erratic progress halfward, and rose to her feet. Anyone but Aunt Celimena would have been shaken by the sudden pitching forward into the darkness, but that good lady, after the briefest instant of pause to regain her breath, was once more in command of her dignity. Clutching her dress, gown about her, she dominated, by sheer will power, the strange assembly, half grouped in the front hall of Moorlands, and half overflowing upon the broad porch.

"Connemara," she called. "Will you be good enough to come and tell me what this is all about?"

Instead of answering, however, that young lady voiced an observation of her own.

"And now see who's here! The faithful family lawyer himself, completing the cast of our mellow melodrama." Connemara was on the crest again, her strenuous experiences, apparently even her bruises, for the moment forgotten.

Her ally followed the sudden appearance of Adam Brewster descending in Aunt Celimena's wake, the only one of the gathering who was conventionally clad.

"That, my dear, will do," Aunt Celimena spoke grimly. "Naturally Mr. Brewster heard the extraordinary commotion going on downstairs and came to our assistance. Did you expect anyone to sleep through it?"

Her glance took in with deliberation the group below her, one by one, until it rested upon Sweetie in the doorway.

"Were they burglars, or this—this young person's recent associates?" she demanded. "You may remember that I warned you, Constance Mary, what would certainly be the result of bringing her into the house."

Sweetie took the accusation with entire equanimity. Tilting her snub nose to an angle even more acute than nature intended, she grinned impudently into the disapproving eyes of the lady who had thus libeled her, and shrugged her shoulders. It was Aunt Celimena who looked away first.

"I think," she said, to Mr. Brewster behind her, "that there are a number of matters that need explaining—at once."

The lawyer murmured an eager assent. From his expression it was clear that he very much doubted the ability of a number of people to explain—satisfactorily—a number of things, but he charitably refrained from putting this doubt into words.

BIG-PRE XMAS SHOW TODAY AT THE CALIFORNIA

The Pre-Christmas "show" which comes to the California Theatre today, headed by the international dancers and instrumentalists the Alsatian Five, in conjunction with the screen feature "The Best People," featuring Warner Bowber, Esther Ralston and Kathryn Williams, promises to be the greatest holiday bill of vaudeville and screen features ever offered in Richmond.

Modeling in Clay is indulged in by Tom Belknap. This clever caricaturist offers many comedy sketches taken from life as well as modeling the heads of well-known and nationally revered patriots is an interesting and entertaining offering.

"Those Foolish Folks" is the billing of Homburg and Lee, a comedy couple who give impressions of everyday people. One little skit in particular where they impersonate a rude couple at a picture show is commendable.

The Three Deverses in a novel dance revue introduce burlesque bits that are a laughing hit. Their costumes are colorful and stage setting pretty.

The Alsatian Five with a routine of National Dancers full of pep and talent are sure to please their auditors for they dance well and their music is of the lifting order featuring string instruments.

The latest Paramount picture by Sidney Olcott, "The Best People," should be a warning to parents, especially of the wealthy class, to wake up to their responsibilities; to shed the indifference that characterizes them in the matter of choice of husbands and wives their children may make.

Other holiday features on the same program include "Felix on the Job," a Felix the cat comic; "Kinograms," world news events; Carl Richard's California Orchestra; Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Two Richest Men in the World Never Went to College

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

HENRY FORD

CHICAGO—The two richest men in the world, Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller, never went to college, it was pointed out by President Jesse Grant Chapline of La Salle Extension University, in an address here at an educational conference.

"When men can succeed in the world of business as well or better without a college education, it indicates something wrong with education," said President Chapline. "Of twenty-three industrial companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, fourteen are operated by men who never went to college."

"Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears, Roebuck and Company, started in business when he was sixteen years old. Lord Leverhulme, the soap king of Great Britain, Charles M. Schwab, and James A. Farrell, steel magnates, and John Wanamaker, Philadelphia merchant and former Postmaster General of the United States, began business at the same age."

"James E. Duke, the tobacco manufacturer who recently bequeathed nearly $100,000,000 to found a university, A. W. Douglas, shoe manufacturer John D. Archibald of the Standard Oil Company, and John N. Willys, the automobile manufacturer, are among men who started in business life as boys of thirteen years."

"If we could get college education that would produce results like that there would be no complaints of it. The education of which there is never any criticism is that which puts knowledge in a man's mind by which he can make his way to success. The fault with higher education in America is that it has tended to become a social asset rather than the kind of training that enables a man to win in the struggle of life."

The Crowded Hour At the Richmond Is Big War Film

For combining real laughs, thrills and actionful drama, "The Crowded Hour," starring Bebe Daniels, which comes to the Richmond today, has anything the popular Paramount star has ever attempted before done to a crisp.

"The Crowded Hour" was written for the screen by John Russell from the Broadway stage success "The Channing Pollock and Eugene O'Neill brings Miss Daniels to the screen in the role of Peggy Laurence, a breezy telephone girl who, between "suspense" and "dramatic" dreams of the day when Broadway will see her name in bright lights—a dream that comes true when Kenneth Harlan, who, with T. Roy Barnes, heads the supporting cast in the picture, sees her at an amateur night on the Bowery and brings her and her partner (Barnes) to the notice of a prominent producer.

Other features on the same program include "Baby Be Good," a juvenile comedy; "Kinograms," world news events.

Thunder Mountain Shows People of The Blue Ridge

Madge Bellamy and Leslie Fenton will appear in the leading role of the William Fox production of "Thunder Mountain," which will open at the California Theatre for a two day run beginning Monday.

In this fascinating story of the crude folk who live high up in the Blue Ridge mountains, Madge Bellamy portrays a little circus girl who runs away from her show and takes refuge among the mountains, while Leslie Fenton is seen as the worst boy on Thunder Mountain who later develops into an idealistic lad, ambitious to raise his people from poverty and ignorance to prosperity and knowledge.

Others in the cast include Alec Francis, Emily Fitzoy, Zasu Pitts, Paul Panzer, Dan Mason, Otis Harlan, Arthur Housman, and Maine Geary.

Victor Schertzinger directed the production.

BAKERSFIELD TAKES GAME FROM SALINAS

Salinas high school was defeated Saturday in its game with Bakersfield high school by a score of 38-0 before a crowd of 10,000. The Bakersfield Drillers, roughshod over the Salinas high school Cowboys and piled up a 19-0 lead at the end of the first half of their battle at Ewing Field. The Bakersfield high school has earned the right to play Covina for the State championship. The lighter Salinas team could not stop the powerful Driller attack, and the valley boys were continually headed goalward. They scored their first touchdown less than five minutes after the initial kickoff. The brilliant work of Tex Jones in the Bakersfield backfield was the feature of the first half.

Though the field was slightly slippery, it was in fairly good condition following the rains of Friday night. Salinas during the first half, succeeded in making only one first down, that the result of a twenty-yard forward pass from Ed Storm to Church.

San Pablo Cagers Defeat Club Five

Playing a superior game the San Pablo Roger Williams cagers defeated the Francis Ashbury club at the Y. M. C. A. last night by the score of 23-3. The San Pablo boys were a bit heavier and had a good passing game.

The line ups were: Roger Williams: L. Pinto and C. Pinto, forwards; Goldworthy, center; Neves and Perry guards. Francis Ashbury: Murray and Johnson, forwards; Meyers, center; Hall and Rowe, guards.

WAIVER BATTLE
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Young ball players may unite in fighting the two year non-waiver rule under which major leagues keep a string on young would-be ball players, which they have farmed out to minor leagues. Formerly it was the rule that waivers might be asked after a player had been on out for one year. The majors now contend that two years is not enough.

I. O. O. F. Plans For New Year
New Years will be observed by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Richmond. This will inaugurate a new custom in Odd Fellows circles. Arrangements are in the hands of Wallace Snellgrove and his committee for the dance and card party that will be held Friday, January 1. The members and families of both lodges are invited to attend.

Odd Fellows Have Santa Fe Adds to Fire Equipment

The regular annual dinner and smoker was held by the Contra Costa Encampment of the Odd Fellows at Odd Fellows hall last night. Wallace Snellgrove acted as hostmaster. J. L. Brown and G. T. Stanley were in charge of the banquet.

The supper was prepared by the Rebekahs with Mrs. T. Edgar in charge.

The feature of the party was the Christmas tree with gifts for the members. These gifts were supposed to show the peculiarities of the recipients.

On January 6 there will be the installation of officers by District Deputy Grand Patriarch J. L. Brown and staff.

Water Does Much Damage When Main Breaks in Oakland

East Twelfth street and Twenty-fourth avenue in East Oakland yesterday was flooded with water when a 12-inch water main of the East Bay Water company broke and sent streams of water pouring out with terrific force. The stream flowed for several hours, making it impossible for traffic to progress. Street cars on Twenty-third avenue were able to dash through the flood, but automobiles were unable to navigate, and foot traffic was impossible. Many storekeepers were marooned, for the water ran high over the sidewalks into stores and basements.

The break in the water mains occurred at 9:50 o'clock. The East Bay Water company had a crew on hand to see if something could not be done without turning off the water, but it was discovered that that would be the only solution. Chief of Police James T. Drew detailed every traffic officer to the scene to safeguard life and limb.

The flow of water has seriously undermined East Twelfth street and the pavements have been weakened and threaten to break through in a number of places.

Miss Lois Deutsch, 150 Seventh street, is entertaining as her guest Miss Leman Burman of Glendale. Miss Burman is being extensively entertained during her visit here and is making trips to other Bay cities.

Camp Fire Girls Enlist to Aid Santa Claus Fill Xmas Stocking of Poor Kiddies With Joy-Giving Toys

Every year New York's Camp Fire Girls have supplied the toys given to boys and girls whose cases are known to Bellevue Hospital authorities. Toys which were slightly damaged at factories and were considered unsalable have been donated this year by the makers and the girls gone to work lessness. Then it is up to the tenant in the adjoining room to either extend the stove pipe through a window or be smoked out.

One hot meal a day is all the Bolshevik collegiate can negotiate with his money allotment. To show how the kopecks are counted, the student dining rooms supplied 210,000 dinners in a month at 29 kopecks, or about 14 cents. When the price was reduced one cent and a half a meal, those who patronized the dining rooms increased by 1,000,000 a month.

That's how much difference a cent and a half makes. Breakfast and supper consist of black bread—not buttered.

AIRPLANES TO HAVE BIG GUNS IN FUTURE WAR

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Aerial artillery—big guns mounted on airplanes and displaying largely the aerial bomb—is one of the predictions of Major Oliver Stewart in a terrifying picture of air war in the future. In his new book "The Strategy and Tactics of Air Fighting," the first treatise of its kind written, Major Stewart declares that the aerial big gun is destined to supersede the bomb because of the comparative inaccuracy of the latter for the destruction of ground targets.

"The inhabitants of big cities will be shelled from the air," he writes. "Medium-sized airplanes, each carrying a single big gun will form part of every raiding formation. These aerial artillery machines, probably three-engine biplanes, will not carry many shells. The value of their attack will lie, not in the weight of explosive they distribute, but in the extreme accuracy of their attacks."

"The arrival of the big gun plane is foreshadowed in all countries. Because of its extreme accuracy it will make an excellent weapon for attacking ships. Low-flying machine gun attacks have always proved demoralizing to troops but a formation of aerial artillery diving to the attack will be a thousandfold more effective. Against the civilian population of big cities it will prove immeasurably the most terrible weapon ever devised."

Major Stewart prophesies that the single-seater fighter of the future will be a very small all-steel monoplane, mounting a 1,000-horse-power gas turbine, possibly incorporating some of jet propulsion. It will be capable of a speed of 400 miles an hour on the level. Major Stewart prophesies, with a terminal velocity in a dive of nearly 800 miles an hour—faster than sound travels.

"It will climb to 20,000 feet in four minutes," he declares, "and its service altitude will reach 60,000 feet. So that the pilot will be able to fly at a height of 10 miles and so that he may be able phy-

Russian Student Must Live On a Small Stipend

(By Universal Service)

MOSCOW, Dec. 19.—The Russian college student is settling down to the problem of living on $11 a month. That is the stipend granted by the government to the sons and daughters of the proletariat who can prove they have absolutely no means of support.

Only two-thirds of the 65,000 students attending the higher faculties and technical schools in Russia proper, have a living. The other 20,000 are destitute, receiving no funds regularly.

The central government can supply funds to only 21,000 this session. Trade unions will provide 3,500 with a bare living. Municipalities will take care of 2,000 and the technical schools will give 4,000 applicants from five to seven dollars a piece each month.

Only about 11,000 live on money given them by their parents. But this doesn't mean a generous "allowance" with a private racer for the Russian student.

The students who remain after all possible resources are placed at disposal for education take any odd work that comes along. Some of them work as street laborers for seven or eight hours a day, for 50 cents. But they say they are glad to get even that, so sically to withstand the sudden change of pressure when diving and climbing steeply, he will be enclosed entirely in a pressure suit like a diving suit but of course, lightly made.

"A day attack on a great city would be carried out by an enormous layer formation. The top layer would be long-distance fighters, the next layer huge monoplane bombers, with four or six fighters built into the wings. The next lowest layer would be more long-distance fighters and lowest of all would be the aerial artillery.
